Interest and commitment

“There’s a difference between interest and commitment. When you are interested in doing something, you do it only when it’s convenient. When you are committed to something, you accept no excuses; only results,” said American author and business guru Kenneth Blanchard.

This quote struck me hard, after returning to the National Swine Registry (NSR) office and evaluating our summer shows. As I thought about it, it became clear to me this quote defined the members of the American Landrace Association (ALA), American Yorkshire Club (AYC), Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR) and the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR) and their commitment to something bigger. In previous years, different swine breed association members showed interest in consolidating the different swine registry offices. Most of the time, these talks took place during poor economic times or when the breeding companies took genetic business away from purebred breeders, and then, conveniently and quietly, it went away.

Finally, in the early ’90s, a group of breeders set forth with a commitment to make this concept happen. On July 1, 1994, the NSR was formed by the AYC, HSR and UDSR. In 1998, the ALA became a member of the NSR.

The commitment did not stop with this accomplishment. This group of individuals was committed to providing more opportunities to the members. They went through the dauntless process of long-range, strategic planning with Dr. Harvey Liss. The plan they created contained specific commitments and goals that must be accomplished before the registry could see results. Five years later when the plan was reviewed, Liss commented that most strategic, long-range plans that were completed were met with excuses rather than action to get the desired results.

No excuses, only results – but what results did we get? There are more people becoming involved in the purebred swine industry. From the record entries to record numbers of exhibitors, from barns full of barrows, boars and gilts to the crowds gathered ringside, peoples’ desire to see what is happening in our world creates excitement for everyone involved.

I think Mike McCoy said it best during the NJSS “Show for the Roses” Grand Champion Overall Gilt Drive.

“This is not a hobby for us, it’s a livelihood, a business and I am proud to be part of it,” he said.

As we continue to move on and look into the future, I would like each and every one of you to step back and evaluate your commitment to the purebred swine industry. I am aware of the great minds in our industry and believe in their ability to breed better hogs, whether it be a barrow, boar or gilt. I challenge you to make the next generation better than this one.”

I am aware of the great minds in our industry and believe in their ability to breed better hogs, whether it be a barrow, boar or gilt. Growing up in the livestock industry, one thing I have learned is there are always people willing to help; all you have to do is ask. Whether these people are friends, family or a neighbor down the road, they are volunteering their time because they care about you and the future of this industry. Now that county fairs are over and state fairs are wrapping up, in the Midwest, it’s a great time to look back and thank those that helped you along the way.

My mother always pushed the importance of a thank you card. Each year, after the fair, I would sit down and write a thank you to all of my buyers and family members that helped me throughout the show season. For my first few years in 4-H, it was like pulling teeth to get me to write them because I didn’t understand why it was so important. She didn’t explain it to me, so they were just another thing that had to be done. It turned out, I was wrong.

Freshman year in an introduction to agriculture class, right before the career fair in October, we were lectured about the importance of a handwritten thank you card. After hearing the same thing my mom had drilled into me growing up (no matter how begrudgingly I accepted it) repeated by my college professor, I started thinking maybe my mom was on to something all those years. It wasn’t until I received my first thank you card that it all made sense. After all those years of being lectured about their importance and forced to write them, I finally understood.

I understood by writing a simple thank you card I could make someone’s day or make them feel important, no matter what I was thanking them for. Now, after every show, one of the first things we do, when we get back to the office, is send out thank you cards. Whether they are the ones we collected from the thank you stations set up at each show or the ones we write our volunteers, I try to get them sent out in a few days’ time so I can make sure our sponsors and volunteers know just how grateful we are for their support.

However, there are times a thank you card isn’t enough. Occasionally, you get the privilege to work with such kind and considerate people you need to find a way to make sure they know just how appreciated they were. I would like to take this opportunity to thank some people that truly made a difference in my life. This year, my amazing swine club leaders, Andy and Cheryl Gall, are retiring after 27 years. The love and kindness they showed my family is something we will never forget. On behalf of the Bontrager family, I would like to thank Andy and Cheryl for all they have done for the Elkhart County Swine Club, and we would like to wish them good luck in their retirement.

“We must find time to stop and thank the people who make a difference in our lives” — John F. Kennedy

Perspective

Growing up, I didn’t think there was a place on God’s green earth that could rival the view from the top of our family farm’s hill in Lonedell, Missouri. To this day, I don’t think “hill” is enough of a descriptor. When I was a little, it seemed like a mountain. Even today, my family refers to its peak as “the hill,” and speak of it with reverence and respect.

It’s a half mile hike uphill to reach the summit of our own mini mountain, but on a clear day you can see over the rolling hills that make up cow-calf country and spot the Labadie power plant’s smoke stacks 30 miles away.

When I made the move to West Lafayette, Indiana, I found myself surrounded by corn, beans and just miles and miles of flat dirt. Honestly, I hated the scenery. It was too open, too vast. There were no comforting nooks and crannies – no hills or valleys. All those wide open spaces made me feel lonely, and I longed to look out the window and see those rolling hills with cattle grazing on fescue pastures.

I would tell everyone Indiana wasn’t half as pretty as the Show Me State. Many people would try to correct me, explaining I was the one who was wrong and cropland was by far the most scenic. Neither of us would yield in the argument, and everyone would leave just a little offended after a colorful discussion about their home state.

Last month, I returned home for the weekend and thought about my family’s Gator and started the half-mile trek to “the hill.” The entire way I told him just how the view from the top of our family farm’s hill in Lonedell, Missouri. To this day, I don’t think “hill” is enough of a descriptor. When I was a little, it seemed like a mountain. 1996

The cover of the 1996 October/November issue was dedicated to the 50th Anniversary of the National Barrow Show® held every year in Austin, Minnesota. NBS® is known for its rich history and tradition that continues year after year. For more information on NBS® see page 72.

“A Step Ahead,” written by summer intern, Nathan Fent, focused on the success of National Junior Swine Association member Emily Arkfeld. Her dedication to the swine industry both in and out of the show ring donned her top honors in the classroom, FFA and livestock judging. She is currently working on obtaining her doctorate from the University of Illinois.

2013

2013 was the first year State Fair show results were printed in color. The September Showpig Issue features junior and open show results from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Missouri and Wisconsin State Fairs as well as Michigan Livestock Expo and South Dakota Summer Showdown. This year’s results start on page 44.

NSR News

NSR Internship Opportunities

The National Swine Registry (NSR) will once again be offering three internships, during the summer of 2015, including the Field Staff, Marketing & Communications and National Junior Swine Association (NJSA) internships. These internships are full-time, and students will be paid a weekly stipend. All internship applications are due Dec. 1, 2014.

Field Staff Internship:

The NSR Field Staff Internship provides on-the-road experience traveling with fulltime NSR Field Representatives, and opportunities to both learn from and contribute to field activities. Responsibilities include visiting purebred swine farms and AI boar studs; assisting at NSR-sponsored events including the World Pork Expo in Des Moines, Iowa, and the Summer Type Conference and National Junior Summer Spectacular in Louisville, Kentucky; assisting at state fairs; and other field staff duties as assigned. For more information and to apply email Vice President of Member Outreach and Youth Development Brian Arnold at arnold@nationalswine.com.

Marketing & Communications Internship:

This is a tailor-made internship – you help make it what you want it to be! As the NSR Marketing & Communications Intern, you will have the opportunity to work with NSR staff to personally design your internship curriculum and focus on the areas of marketing and communications in which you are most interested, or want to gain experience. Options for a summer work plan include feature writing for Seedstock EDGE, advertisement design and page layout, magazine production, online content development, photography, video editing, promotional campaign design and more! You will have the chance to collaborate on projects with the National Junior Swine Association, report on national shows, and brainstorm and develop new ideas for growing and promoting the NSR. For more information and to apply email NSR Director of Marketing & Communications Katie Maupin at katie@nationalswine.com.

National Junior Swine Association Internship:

The NJSA Internship will provide experience in planning and executing shows and leadership events for the nation’s largest youth livestock organization. You will have the opportunity to assist NJSA staff with planning the World Pork Expo Junior National and the organization’s pinnacle event, the National Junior Summer Spectacular, as well as help lead the NJSA Board of Directors, write NJSA Spotlight highlights, take photos and video, facilitate web updates and write articles. This internship provides experience in event planning, communications, youth leadership and livestock show production. For more information and to apply email NSR Director of Junior Activities Kaley Bontrager at kaley@nationalswine.com.

For more information about these internship opportunities, turn to page 116.

September 2014
Seedstock EDGE Position Page Auction

The Seedstock EDGE Position Page Auction is scheduled to be held on Wednesday, Nov. 12, on showpig.com. This gives loyal advertisers a great opportunity to add value to their advertising by securing a prime position in every issue of the magazine. For more information turn to page 220 or contact NSR Director of Marketing & Communications Katie Maupin at katie@nationalswine.com.

NSR seeks a qualified candidate for Director of Development role

The National Swine Registry (NSR) is seeking a qualified candidate to fill the newly-formed Director of Development role. The Director of Development will be responsible for planning, organizing and directing all of the National Swine Registry Foundation’s (NSRF) fundraising, including the major gifts program, annual fund, planned giving, special events and capital campaigns. The Director works closely with the NSR Leadership Team and the NSRF Board of Directors in all development and fundraising endeavors. Interested candidates may apply by emailing their resume to NSR CEO Mike Paul at mike@nationalswine.com. Applications are due Oct. 10.

Obituaries

Robert “Rob” J. Duncan

Robert “Rob” J. Duncan, 49, of Prairie Home, Missouri, formerly of the Mendon, Illinois, area, passed away on Aug. 4. Duncan was born on Dec. 29, 1964, in Quincy, Illinois, to William and Dolores (Evans) Duncan. He was baptized at the Mendon Congregational Church.

In his younger years, he was a member of 4-H and FFA. He was very athletic and played football, baseball and ran track in high school. He earned an associate’s degree in animal science from Black Hawk Junior College in Kewanee, Illinois, and was on the collegiate livestock judging team. Duncan graduated from the University of Illinois, in 1987, with a bachelor’s in ag science and ag economics. He was a member of the Hoof and Horn Club and a member of the meats judging team and meat animal evaluation team.

Duncan was employed as a broker/salesman for United Country Commercial Real Estate. In 2012, he was honored as being the No. 4 Salesperson for the United Country franchise. He coached baseball and basketball for several years in Prairie Home, Missouri.

Surviving are his parents, Bill and Dolores Duncan of Fowler, Illinois; his life partner, Pam Zey of Prairie Home; one brother, James (Julie) Duncan of Chesterfield, Missouri; one sister, Cynthia (Dennis) Mohrman of Normal, Illinois; nieces and nephews, Clare (Doug) Bergman of Chicago, Illinois, Matt Mohrman of Chicago, Brandon Duncan of the Quad Cities, Michael Duncan of Chicago, Anna Duncan of Chesterfield, Dallas Duncan of Mt. Sterling, Illinois, Cutter Duncan of Fowler; Taylor Zey of Prairie Home, and Makayla Zey of Prairie Home. He was preceded in death by one brother, Thomas R. Duncan.

Services were held Aug. 8, in the Mendon Congregational Church with Pastor Dennis Gartung officiating. Interment was at the the Home Cemetery near Fowler. Memorial contributions have been suggested to the Unit 4 Athletic Boosters, the Mendon Congregational Church or the Home Cemetery Association. You are invited to share memories of Duncan and leave condolences at www.hunterfb.com.

The NJSA Eastern Regional will take place at the Erie County Fairgrounds Showplex in Hamburg, New York, on Oct. 9-11. The ownership deadline was Aug. 18, and entries are due on Sept. 11. Look for information about the event and enter online at nationalswine.com. For a complete schedule turn to page 73.

American Royal

The American Royal Junior Swine Show will be held Oct. 24-25 in Kansas City, Missouri. Entries are due on Sept. 10 and the ownership deadline for all entries was Aug. 1. You may enter for this event online at americanny.com. For a full schedule see page 74.

NAILE

Entries for the North American International Livestock Exhibition (NAILE) Market Hog Show are due Oct. 1. NAILE will be held Nov. 8-9 at the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville, Kentucky. You may enter online at livestockexpo.org. For a full schedule see page 74.

Fall Classic

Duncan, Oklahoma, will once again be the home for the NSR Fall Classic on Nov. 19-22. All entries for the Fall Classic must be submitted by Oct. 10. Look for an entry form in this issue of the Seedstock EDGE. For a full schedule see page 75.
Joel Nelson

Nelson was the owner and operator of Nelson Sound Electronics, which he founded in 1971, transforming his long time love of electronics and production into a business venture. Through the company, Nelson became involved with various state pageants in the Miss America system, and served as both Executive Director and Producer of Miss Minnesota from 1970-1998. Nelson worked with more than 10 county fairs in Minnesota and recently surpassed 30 years of service with several of them. He took great pride in these long-standing relationships.

Nelson was an active member of Our Savior’s Lutheran Church of Austin, where he often lent his expertise in sound. For more than 20 years, he was proud to provide sound support to his elementary alma mater, Banfield School, which his daughter also attended. Nelson participated in the Exchange Club, Austin Public Schools Student/Parent Advisory Council and served on the Board of the Paramount Theater. He was involved with the National Barrow Show™ and was instrumental in its continued success in Austin.

Nelson is survived by his wife, Marlo; daughter and son-in-law Nancy (daughter of Jean Kyle) and Corey Mathisen, White Bear Lake, Minnesota; aunt Pauline Lageson, Green Bay, Wisconsin; uncle Phil (Ardythe) Johnson Phoenix, Arizona; and many more dear friends and family members.

Honorary pallbearers were: Blaine Arneson, Justin Bickler, Allen Ditto, Tom Hensley, Bob Loecher, Mike Long, Corey Mathisen, Kenny Miland, Danny Muzik, Corky Peterson and Larry Webber.

A gathering to celebrate Nelson’s spirit of hospitality and love of sports (especially the Golden Gophers) was held on Aug. 1 in the Main Pavilion at Todd Park of Austin. A memorial service was held Aug. 2 at Our Savior’s Lutheran Church of Austin.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to fund a scholarship through the Austin Public Education Foundation, PO Box #878 Austin, MN 55912; which will be awarded to students pursuing careers in the sound/production field.

Whether standing in a show ring or leaning on a fence, Dan Hoge is never happier than when he is looking at livestock. He is a true student to the industry with a constant desire to learn through observation and an appreciation for every animal.

By Ann Fry

Dan Hoge stands with arms crossed on the top board and a foot hooked on the bottom of the fence surrounding his favorite lot on their family farm in Walnut, Illinois. On that farm, Dan and his wife, Deanna, have raised their livestock and their children, just as Deanna’s parents, Verden and Verna Lee Broers, used the land before them. For the last five decades, he stood in that spot to evaluate the livestock he and his family raised. His family says they have never seen someone waste so much time looking at livestock, but to Dan, it’s not a waste – it’s the thing he enjoys most.

Even before he knew that fence on that farm existed, before he was even tall enough to see over the top of any fence, he would stand at his father’s side and peer through the gap between boards at the animals his father raised. It was there, on their farm in Walnut, Illinois, that Dan developed his love for good livestock, his ability to evaluate them and his drive to succeed.

Before he coached numerous champion Black Hawk College – East (BHE) teams and judged thousands of shows, he was just a kid who liked to look at livestock. Growing up, Dan was his father's shadow. His father, Elmer, was a purebred breeder with an affinity for raising and showing red livestock. Each time he came home from judging a show, he would bring back a rubber ball for Dan. Instead of shooting baskets or playing catch, Dan “drove” the balls down an alley in the pig barn with a stick. As a youngster all he thought about was raising livestock, and some things never change.

Today, one of the things Dan is most proud of is the fact that he is a working animal scientist. He and Deanna still raise hogs and sheep on that farm where Deanna grew up.

“Dan concentrates a lot, outside of teaching and coaching, on what needs to be done next or how to make things better at the farm,” Deanna says. “He isn’t the only one.

Deanna has a passion for working with livestock as well.

“I just enjoy seeing good livestock produced, and we really have fun working with them,” Deanna says. “I don’t know if it’s because we’ve worked together for so long or we work at the same pace, but I know what he expects, what he wants done and how he wants it done.”

Coming home to a shovel and wheelbarrow waiting in the barn was Deanna’s way to relax after a long day of teaching second grade, something she did for 38 years. In Dan’s mind, the farm and the family wouldn’t have been so successful without her.

“They say there’s a cornerstone in every family and every career. In our family, it’s Deanna. She keeps us grounded, she’s our biggest fan and coach, it wasn’t planned. Life just took him there, but considering his parents, it’s not surprising. It’s an odd mindset I inherited, and if you would ask my wife, I don’t know if it’s a good thing or not. We’re easy people to figure out. If it has to do with livestock, we’re interested,” he says.

Raising his boys as judging coach’s kids seems standard to Mark. As he says, you’re used to what you’re raised with, and everybody assumes what they’re raised with is normal. With Dan gone coaching teams, judging shows or working late, Deanna, Mark and Kathy grew used to it and adapted.

“I hear young mothers say today their kids are in bed by 7:30 p.m. because they can’t interrupt their schedule. If my kids had been in bed by 7:30 p.m., they would have never seen their dad,” Deanna laughs.

Deanna explains Mark and Kathy would wait at the top of the stairs each night for Dan to walk through the door to put them to bed. If he was gone on a trip, she would tell them their dad was working, and they were taking care of things. As the kids got older and more involved in school activities, they would sit down with a calendar, and she would point out the dates he couldn’t miss.

Although Dan might have missed a few activities while he traveled to judging contests, shows and sales, he valued the time with his children.

Now, the proud grandpa loves spending time with grandsons, Carter and Nolan. They may not get a lot done on the farm, or as much as Mark would want them to, but they spend a lot of quality time together.

Lessons from the Showring

Two ribbons hang on the basement wall where Dan will see them as he leaves the house every morning to do chores and go to school. One is a fifth-place ribbon and the other is a sixth-place; Mark both won at the Illinois State Fair. Most people would expect to see purple banners lining the walls, but Dan doesn’t hang those. He hangs the ribbons that remind him to stay humble and never take anything for granted. As he watches the fourth generation of Hoge boys enter the showring, he doesn’t focus on the color of the ribbon they receive, but rather the effort they put into it. Deanna has the same mindset.

“I enjoy watching them show, but I really enjoy seeing them do well participating,” she says. “Really, I just focus on the participation and if they’re doing a good job. I don’t focus on them winning, because they may not have the animal to do it, but if they are putting out their best in the showring.”

For families like theirs, showing livestock is a long-standing tradition. Dan’s father showed hogs at the National Duroc Congress and the Illinois State Fair. At the age of 6, Dan was finally allowed to tag along with him to the Illinois State Fair, and he hasn’t missed one since. Showing livestock has become a chosen way of life for the Hoge family.
trash is picked up. Dan uses the lessons learned in the showing to teach his animal science and livestock judging students such as Breanna Lawyer, who says she learned to never say quit.

Grant Grebner, former student and current coach at Illinois Central College, learned to always wear a tie and keep 4-H moms happy, when judging a show. To do that, a judge should work with the kids, talk about every animal that comes through the ring, find something positive to say and keep learning at the forefront of judging a show. Grebner shares the opinion that showings should be classrooms for youth.

In Jack Ward’s mind, Hoge practices what he preaches and may be considered one of the best when it comes to working with youth in the show ring. Ward, COO and Director of Breed Improvement for the American Hereford Association, remembers the first time he met Dan at a county fair in Indiana. He appreciated the job he did not only evaluating the animals, but also working with kids. It was Dan’s personality in the ring that made Ward want to join the BHE judging team.

Ward’s teammate and roommate, Grebner, met Dan in much the same manner. Dan was judging the Woodford County Fair in Eureka, Illinois, and Grebner, even as a teenager, was impressed with the way Dan could relate with young people, old people and everyone in between.

“His ability of making every person, even at a county fair, feel like they are at a national livestock congress is truly impressive,” Grebner says.

While Grebner and Ward have been impressed with Dan’s ability in the showing, he has been admiring them. Former students like Grebner, Ward, Mark Ray, Dan and Jennifer Shike, Doug Albright and Dale Hummel, also a former colleague and now friend, are making strides in the livestock industry and having a big impact on Dan.

“If I was in their shoes or judging that show, I always want to make them proud. They’re some of the people I try to emulate,” he says.

Connecting in a Classroom

On the first day back to school at BHE, Dan will wear a blue shirt because blue symbolizes first place, and he wants it to be a first-place semester. As he stands at the bottom of the auditorium, the first words out of his mouth will be, “Welcome to the 45th edition of Introductory Animal Science.” For the next 16 weeks, he will give lectures and organize labs to teach students animal science practices other teachers won’t believe they learned in an introductory class.

“I just get fired up about that kind of stuff. I really love the teaching part. I love the classroom and the laboratory part of animal science,” Dan says.

The passion he has for teaching is evident. It is in his voice when he explains they will have their first-ever bison lab this year, and it is evident to every student that has ever taken a seat in that auditorium.

“It was always clear that Hoge was doing what he loved. He always had the mindset if you weren’t going to apply yourself 100 percent, then why waste your time?” Lawyer says.

As much as Dan loves teaching students about livestock, he loves seeing the students succeed even more. While he may coach and teach his students now, he really sets the stage for his students to go out into the world.

“We only have them for two short years,” he says. “But even that transition from freshman to sophomore year would cut class or go to the library and waste your time?” Lawyer says.

“His ability of making every person, even at a county fair, feel like they are at a national livestock congress is truly impressive,” Grebner says.

In those two short years, Dan has been able to make an impact on almost every student that sets foot in his office.

“He truly cares about student development,” Mark says. “If it’s the two-year production students in their internships or the collegiate judges, he wants individual growth in each student. He wants the best for them and takes great pride in his students going on to senior college and having successful careers.”

If Dan thinks something needs to be done for the advancement of a student, he has a way of encouraging those around him to do it. According to Mark, his dad has the ability to sit a student down in his office, and by the time the student is done visiting with him, they are in agreement with what path they need to take. He has developed a great rapport with the industry because he gets to know the producers and does a good job of matching people and skill sets with available positions.

Part of his reputation with placing students in the industry comes from getting to know his students. Through the years he has been there, he has totally immersed himself in the BHE community. As Mark points out, even Dan’s wardrobe reflects how important BHE is to him.

“99 percent of the time he wears a hat it will be a BHE hat. That, to me, is a symbol of what he thinks about and what he does every day,” Mark comments.

He stays very connected in the classroom, eating in the cafeteria and watching students interact. As Deanna has observed over the years, he takes an interest in every student. He may not be interested in the same things they are, but he takes the time to listen and learn from his students. In Grebner’s mind, that’s what makes him unique.

“He has not only been able to stay in contact with so many of his students, but he has taken the relationship to a personal and valuable level,” Grebner says.

His ability to form and keep relationships extends to breeders and people in the industry, as well.

For Ward, Dan’s connections in the industry were one of the best assets he has to offer his students.

“He exposed you to some of the leading seedstock programs throughout the country. We got to visit a lot of really good places, and those folks had a lot of respect for Dan so they spent time talking with us about their livestock, philosophies and theories,” Ward says.

When the students went to a producer’s farm, they were taught to act like livestock kids. You didn’t park on the yard, didn’t sit on the gates and you treated the livestock and the hosts with courtesy and respect. As Ward says, Dan was thinking about sustainability before it was a common practice.

“I really try to deliver to the younger generation that if they don’t take care of things, it’s not going to be there for them and their children,” Dan says.

Creating Legacies in Crane

On a crisp, misty Monday in early September, Dan will stand in Austin, Minnesota. American flag bunting will grace the rafters of Crane Pavilion. The hard-packed dirt will become dust under the slightly-scuffed boots of students filling the bleachers. To most, it’s just another county fairgrounds. But to Dan and the BHE program, it’s who they are. It’s the reason they have spent the last three weeks examining hogs, filling steno pads and flipping through term books. As the BHE van joins the long line of judging vans at the Mower County Fairgrounds, Dan will welcome his 40th team to the National Barrow Show” (NBS).

But, even before the team opens the van doors in Austin, they will have experienced one of the highlights of Dan’s coaching career – the Pilgrimage. For a small campus on a hill south of Kewanee, Illinois, to assemble the Pilgrimage every year and have 4-H teams, junior colleges and senior colleges follow them to Austin is pretty humbling. Many of today’s successful university coaches traveled on the pilgrimage, and Dan has enjoyed watching them evolve to where they are today.

Dan credits much of the success the college has had to Harold Hodson, who began the Pilgrimage. Hodson, a former judging coach at Southern Illinois University, saw a lot of potential in the young coach Dan Hoge at the new college in Kewanee, and offered Dan a lot of assistance in his early years. What Dan won’t say is that a lot of the success BHE has seen over the years stems from his ability to evaluate livestock and constant desire to be the best.

“He’s incredibly driven at whatever he does. Whether it is teaching, coaching, parenting, grandparenting, feeding pigs, raising hogs or showing livestock, his drive to succeed is unparalleled,” Mark says.

What really motivates Dan, what makes him tick, is his true love of all livestock. A close second is his constant desire to learn. He reads magazines, talks to breeders and studies animals in the ring. He observes trends and has a progressive mindset to see what the next one will be. He is a true student to the industry with an insatiable need to learn more.

“It’s hard to explain, but the process of quality livestock is what drives me. I’ve always loved looking at livestock, evaluating them for what their purposes are and appreciating them for that,” he says.

When he says always, he truly means it. As a kid, he would pester his father when he came home from judging a show until he heard about every pig that won. He wanted to know who had the champion, what they looked like and what he would change about them. It was all he thought about.

So, he participated on the livestock judging team through 4-H and decided to join the judging team at the University of Illinois. After completing his master’s degree and with some encouragement from Mel Fink, Dan went into the Illinois Cooperative Extension Service and was a livestock advisor and judging coach for two and a half years in Henry County, Illinois. Also during that time, he began teaching a class parttime at the newly-formed East Campus of Black Hawk College in Kewanee. In 1970, Dan had the opportunity to join the faculty fulltime.

“With this will be the 45th year,
“I’ve always loved looking at livestock, evaluating them for what their purposes are and appreciating them for that.” — Dan Hoge and some 45 years later the rest is history,” Dan says.

And what a history he has. Dan was the first community college coach east of the Mississippi River to take his team to the Houston Stock Show, back in the late ’70s. When the contest superintendent called their school for third-place in swine, he jokingly said he had never heard of the school before. Very kindly, Dan paused and said, “Sir, you will hear from us again.”

That became his goal, his directive, with the program. Now, with 19 combined championships at the Houston Stock Show, American Royal, National Western Stock Show and North American International Livestock Exposition and 30 wins at the NBS®, he is arguably one of the best livestock judging coaches in the country.

The reason Dan coaches isn’t to accumulate trophies, but to help students reach the potential he sees when they come to him as freshman.

“There are those that everything comes so easy to and you challenge them to do continue to do their best, but it’s those in the middle and those that struggle – that’s why we coach,” he says. “When they get to a certain point in a set of reasons I’ll stand up and say ’Come here. I want to shake your hand. Welcome to collegiate judging.’ I don’t care if their name’s never called at a contest, but they know they can judge shows, speak on the mic and explain themselves. They’ve made it to that point and it’s a great accomplishment.”

Giving reasons to Dan gave Ward the confidence he needed to do his current job. Dan helped him fine-tune his thoughts, abilities and ideals on a short notice. It also gave him the confidence needed to speak intelligently to the breeders he represents in the industry. As Ward says, he didn’t just receive an education at BHE, he got an experience.

When Dan began coaching in 1970, he never imagined the contests he’d win, the people he’d meet and the number of students he’d impact. He was just sharing his passion of evaluating livestock and doing the thing he loves most – standing at a fence looking at livestock.

Over the last four-and-a-half decades Dan has taught more than 4,000 students and coached more than 700. But, the number of people he has influenced is even greater. The reach he has had across the U.S., the generations and the species is exponential. People that were his students are now coaches themselves, teachers, raising livestock or involved in the industry. They are passing on the lessons “Hoge” taught them about being stock show kids. And, if he ever decides to retire, he won’t be done; his role will just change.
Congratulations to all the showmen who had success at the numerous county and state shows with our pigs. We will have a large selection of July-September Duroc, Yorkshire, Hampshire and crossbred barrows and gilts available for the winter show season. Call for more information.

Show Barrow

The Mother Breed

This Reserve Grand Champion Barrow Overall at the 2013 State Fair of Texas was half Yorkshire. Duelms raised this Dallas Champion.

Rory Duelm of Duelm's Prevailing Genetics will tell you that you can win a major stock show with a half-Yorkshire barrow. In the last decade, he's raised five or more Grand Champions or Reserve Grand Champions at major stock shows that were either sired by a purebred Yorkshire boar or out of a purebred Yorkshire sow.

In 2009, he did it with a solid white barrow that first won the entire crossbred show before it took Grand Champion Overall Market Barrow honors in San Antonio. Could this Yorkshire-appearing barrow have shown with the breed shows? Yes, he could have classified, but there was no need, when he was good enough to win the whole thing.

Other half-Yorkshire champions raised in New Braunfels, Texas, include: 2004 Fort Worth Champion, 2005 Grand and Reserve Barrows in Houston, and most recently the Reserve Grand Champion at the State Fair of Texas last October.

With around 250 sows, Duelm has one mission – produce show pigs. To help with that mission, he currently has around 20 purebred Yorkshire sows. Those sows are most often bred to black terminal boars to make Yorkshire-influenced crossbreds.

"We keep some of those crossbred gilts to be our replacements, but the barrows are good enough to sell as show barrows," Duelm says. "It keeps some production and mothering ability in our sows by putting a little bit of Yorkshire back into them through those Yorkshire sows."

Duelm also has a place for Yorkshire sires in his operation. "A lot of my crossbred sows, even though they're crossbreds, are linebred to some degree. When we bring in a purebred boar, it gives them an extra kick," he says. "A lot of guys will just use Yorkshire boars to make females, but if they can't make both barrows and females, we don't use them."

The perfect barrow-making Yorkshire boar for Duelm is one that is really correct and a little moderate. "Typically, a purebred Yorkshire boar will generate bigger than what he is, so we want him to be moderate in size and correct on his feet and legs with good bone and width," he says. "We're not too terribly worried about muscle because, typically, these crossbred sows have plenty of muscle."

One of Duelm's current Yorkshires sires, Slow Ride, is not only working to make both barrows and gilts, but he's making an impact in both the purebred and crossbred rings. Slow Ride is the sire of the $130,000 class-winning Summer Type Conference Yorkshire boar entry from RW Genetics called The Prophet.

Besides the extra "kick" the purebred Yorkshire genetics are adding to Duelm's litters, he's seeing returns in his farrowing house when he uses those chromed-up, half-Yorkshire replacements. "The biggest advantage I see to using these Yorkshire genetics, in the long run, is when we keep these females that are half Yorkshire and half crossbred in our program," Duelm says. "Then, we come back with a black exotic boar on top of them, and we see the most consistency. Those Yorkshire-influenced gilts do just as good of a job, or better, than anything when breeding back, farrowing and raising large litters."
There’s no doubt the South takes building a show barrow seriously. With classes as big as 40 head at some Southern majors there is a chance that after months of hard work, time and toil with their project a youth could be on the wrong side of a silt and get the gate before they even hit the ring.

With many Southern market hog shows exhibiting breed barrows by appearance and breed classification rather than their pedigrees, some would say there is little room for purebred hogs to compete. But some of the best barrow breeders in the South will tell you there is plenty of room for purebreds in their breeding barn, and they have the backdrop photos to prove it.

Other half-Yorkshire champions raised in New Braunfels, Texas, include: 2004 Fort Worth Champion, 2005 Grand and Reserve Barrows in Houston, and most recently the Reserve Grand Champion at the State Fair of Texas last October.

With around 250 sows, Duelm has one mission — produce show pigs. To help with that mission, he currently has around 20 purebred Yorkshire sows. Those sows are most often bred to black terminal boars to make Yorkshire-influenced crossbreds.

“We keep some of those crossbred gilts to be our replacements, but the barrows are good enough to sell as show barrows,” Duelm says. “It keeps some production and mothering ability in our sows by putting a little bit of Yorkshire back into them through those Yorkshire sows.”

Duelm also has a place for Yorkshire sires in his operation.

“A lot of my crossbred sows, even though they’re crossbreds, are linebred to some degree. When we bring in a purebred boar, it gives them an extra kick,” he says. “A lot of guys will just use Yorkshire boars to make females, but if they can’t make both barrows and females, we don’t use them.”

The perfect barrow-making Yorkshire boar for Duelm is one that is really correct and a little moderate.

“Typically, a purebred Yorkshire boar will generate bigger than what he is, so we want him to be moderate in size and correct on his feet and legs with good bone and width,” he says. “We’re not too terribly worried about muscle because, typically, these crossbred sows have plenty of muscle.”

One of Duelm’s current Yorkshire sires, Slow Ride, is not only working to make both barrows and gilts, but he’s making an impact in both the purebred and crossbred rings. Slow Ride is the sire of the $130,000 class-winning Summer Type Conference Yorkshire boar entry from RW Genetics called The Prophet.

Besides the extra “kick” the purebred Yorkshire genetics are adding to Duelm’s litters, he’s seeing returns in his farrowing house when he uses those chromed-up, half-Yorkshire replacements.

“The biggest advantage I see to using these Yorkshire genetics, in the long run, is when we keep these females that are half Yorkshire and half crossbred in our program,” Duelm says. “Then, we come back with a black exotic boar on top of them, and we see the most consistency. Those Yorkshire-influenced gilts do just as good of a job, or better, than anything when breeding back, farrowing and raising large litters.”
Kirkpatrick Farms
Ratliff City, Oklahoma

Willie Kirkpatrick has a unique perspective. Few are as passionate about raising, showing and judging barrows as he is; but he also spent some time traveling as a purebred swine field representative helping breeders select seedstock. Yet, we all know when he takes the mic, “Willie K.” expects nothing less than a beastly “gorilla-backed” show hog with a “ditch down his top big enough to hold water.”

At Kirkpatrick’s place in Ratliff City, Oklahoma, he has about 50 showpig sows, and while the majority of them are crosses, he also has some purebred Hampshire and Yorkshire females.

“We find that when we use purebred genetics, we intensify the predictability and consistency of our program,” Kirkpatrick says. “Pigs with a higher percentage of pure genetics seem to have less problems. By this, I mean they seem to be healthier and stouter at birth, and we don’t see as many structural problems in our end projects. That’s a plus for us because we want the best results for our customers.”

When it comes to picking out purebreds to bring into Kirkpatrick Farms’ breeding program, they need to be stout. Kirkpatrick looks for purebred boars and gilts he is confident can produce crossbred barrows that can be competitive even at the highest levels.

His best sow, 25-6, is half Hampshire. The predictability and consistency 25-6 brings to their program is second to none and most of Kirkpatrick’s crossbreds are her sons and daughters. The bottom line for Kirkpatrick is simply that there are often more salable pigs per litter when purebred genetics are utilized.

When you ask him if they can compete, he will point you toward the Hampshire-sired lightweight division winner at the 2014 Oklahoma Youth Expo. Kirkpatrick says it was this barrow’s added stoutness, structural correctness and balance that helped him edge out the others.

“We find that when we use purebred genetics, we intensify the predictability and consistency of our program.” — Willie Kirkpatrick

Mike Fischer Show Pigs
Iowa Park, Texas

Mike Fischer Show Pigs is known as the home of WarFare, but it’s also the home of about a dozen purebred Yorkshire sows. Fischer likes to line up his crossbreds to get more consistency out of his litters, which is important when your main goal is to raise salable show pigs. But he’s learned that every three generations or so, you need to step out and bring in new blood. That “blood” has been a good set of productive, purebred Yorkshire females.

“Honestly, with these crosses, you have to get a little more maternal traits bred in them,” Fischer says. “You need to watch them. I’ve brought in purebred Yorkshire sows three times, since I’ve had hogs.”

The first time he purchased those females from Jim Grimm and never had a purebred litter out of them. Next, he ventured to South Dakota to bring home a solid set of Yorkshire from Chuck and Ben Olsen. Most recently, he acquired some foundation Yorkshire females from Kevin Ricker, but these were purchased with a slightly different goal in mind.

“These were brought in for my own kids to exhibit,” Fischer explains.

His son, Max, has driven several Yorkshire females bred by Kevin Ricker to success in the show ring, and Fischer wanted to raise a few purebred Yorkshires so Max would have gilts and barrows that could participate in National Junior Swine Association (NJSA) shows throughout the country.

“But those purebred litters have had as much value as our crossbred litters,” Fischer says. “As of now, we’ve been overwhelmed with the demand.
for purebred gilts and barrows alike. It kind of surprised me because I didn’t get into [Yorkshires] trying to make money; I just wanted to let my kids show at these national shows.”

With such a demand for purebreds, Fischer has had a hard time breeding his Yorkshire females cross, which is one of his favorite things to do. He’ll tell you that a Yorkshire sow and a black exotic boar were made to be bred together to make blue, barrow-making mamas.

“Some of the best pigs I’ve ever made are out of those half-Yorkshire sows and a crossbred boar. They can classify almost every way,” Fischer says.

Newcastle Genetics Elgin, Oklahoma

Andy Forehand’s motto is “hard work leads to success,” and he has used that to build Newcastle Genetics in Elgin, Oklahoma. This 100-sow operation has produced winning barrows and legendary crossbred boars like Super Monster and the one-time, record-selling Fall Classic entry Outta Hand. But if you were to walk through Forehand’s barn, you would find that a third of his sows, at any one time, will be purebreds. Out of those 30 head or so of purebred females, only a quarter are usually mated purebreds; the majority are mated cross.

“For me, it would be difficult to maintain my crossbred sow herd without a Yorkshire base,” Forehand says. “That’s just how I do it. I try to put some emphasis on production too, not just phenotype for the showing, and I do that by keeping Yorkshire in them.”

Newcastle Genetics is a total confinement operation, so production, durability and longevity are all especially important to Forehand. “When I’ve gone back and added Yorkshires back to my exotic, it’s improved my durability and longevity in my confinement operation. Those sows just last longer. There is more durability there,” he says.

In addition to being durable, the influence of the Mother Breed has helped Forehand maintain maternal traits in his crossbred sow herd.

“There is an advantage on the maternal side, and litter size is a big part of it,” he says. “As you continue to line those exotics up, you tend to get a smaller litter size. With the extra viability you get from these hogs with more hybrid vigor, you’ll wean a higher number too.”

Forehand will tell you he’s heard it is hard to be competitive with a half-Yorkshire or any barrow that isn’t completely crossed-up, but a Newcastle Genetics customer just drove a barrow out of a purebred Yorkshire sow to the second-place pen in San Antonio. If anything, he thinks that a Yorkshire influence is giving his barrows a slight advantage in the show ring.

“What has really helped me here in the last two or three years by using these Yorkshire females and Yorkshire influence is the fleshing ability that I’m able to add back into these crossbred exotic hogs,” Forehand says. “They tend to be easier fleshing and a little softer in their general appearance.”

Forehand is using the Mother Breed to do just that, increase the mothering ability and production of his crossbred lines. As a bonus, the softer, easier-fleshing look of the Yorkshire-influenced pigs is paying off in the showing, and the purebreds at Newcastle are paying off as well. “It’s hard to believe, but lately, we’ve sold just as many purebred boars as we have crossbred,” he says.

HETEROSIS

Heterosis, or hybrid vigor, is the increased function of biological qualities of animals that are outbred, or whose parents come from two different genetic populations. The differences in performance, durability and viability that these breeders saw when they introduced purebred genetics into their linebred crossbred programs can be attributed to heterosis. Using purebreds to form more productive and efficient crossbred animals is a tactic that has been used in the commercial swine industry for years. In fact, the commercial marketing branch of the National Swine Registry (NSR) encourages commercial producers using purebred Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace and Yorkshire genetics to maximize hybrid vigor. To do so, producers first cross Yorkshire and Landrace to make a maternally-oriented F1. Those F1 females are then bred to a Duroc or Hampshire boar to create terminal offspring that capitalize on the gains received through heterosis.

With the ability to reach more than 20,000 registered bidders, and sell more than 80 percent of your hogs, breeders have turned from the sale ring to a computer screen to market their showpigs. The days of on-farm live auctions are slowly fading due to the success seen on online auction sites, such as The Pig Planet and Showpig.com.
The market growth and ability to reach people from coast to coast makes selling hogs online powerful. “There are a lot of really big and really good live auctions that still have huge turnouts, but you’re still at a fraction of the size of what you could reach when you go online,” Aaron Cobb, of Steve Cobb and Family Showpigs, says.

The ability to connect with people nationwide increases your reach and can potentially extend your customer base across the country. This gives buyers additional genetic options and sellers a larger audience, making it a win-win situation for both parties. A sale order becomes somewhat irrelevant because “horse race style” bidding allows the buyer to jump around in the sale. If the first choice exceeds the buyers price range, they can move to another hog.

“I communicate with more customers and have greater interaction with them throughout the sale,” Mike McCoy, of Real McCoy Genetics, says.

He’s noticed because buyers have the ability to move to different lots throughout a sale, there is often more dialogue between buyers and sellers about the auction offering. When conducting business correctly, you strengthen the relationship and build up your customer base. From a breeder just getting started, to a more established showpig or boar stud operation, booking sales online can be a valuable marketing tool. The process of booking a sale is very similar for big and small firms alike.

Every breeder’s operation is a little bit different, so the host sites help the breeder from the beginning to make their online auction fit their program.

Booking Your Sale Date

Planning ahead and booking your sale in advance will help with the success of your online sale. Travis Platt, of The Pig Planet, suggests booking your sale one to two months ahead of time. They are flexible and willing to work with the date you have in mind, but they do have to take into consideration how many sales are scheduled for a certain date. They are careful to not overbook. The Pig Planet averages four to five sales per day, while Showpig.com limits their sales to around 10 per day.

Katy Brattain, auction project manager at Showpig.com, will also tell you to book your sale one to two months ahead to give yourself more marketing opportunities. Not only will your date be added to the master calendar, weekly e-blasts and banners on the auction site, but you can also advertise in livestock publications, online and distribute your sale date by word of mouth. The promotion you do prior will reap the benefits when sale day comes around.

Some may choose to host their sale on a Monday because there are fewer sales on that particular date, while others may feel that a Thursday works best because buyers are the least busy during this time.

“It doesn’t make a huge difference anymore. I have customers across the board that host sales every day of the week and have been very successful in doing so,” Kevin Wendt, owner of Showpig.com, says.

McCoy says they held their first online sale on a Sunday evening because there were no other sales on that day. Since then, they have continued to host sales at this time simply because it has continued to work for them, and their customers know when their sales typically take place.

For smaller breeders who are trying to jump-start their programs, hosting a sale on the same day of a more established breeder is encouraged.

“Some people are hesitant, but I truly believe it is a good, smart marketing tool. You can leverage off them a little, but you are still able to do your own thing and host your own sale,” Platt says.

Following suit with larger firms creates additional traffic to your sale page and can increase your customer base. There may not necessarily be a go-to day of the week, but if you know your customers, it is easier to narrow it down.

The Cobbs host their sales on...
As a breeder, there is no better feeling than seeing your customers make it to the backdrop. For the second year in a row, the Ohio State Fair Grand Champion Barrow was purchased out of Moyer’s online sale. Hannah Frobose drove the barrow in 2014. (m) Morgan Cox purchased her Grand Champion Gilt at the 2013 World Pork Expo and National JuniorSummer Spectacular in Cobb’s 2013 March Online Sale. (l) Blake Logan bought his 2013 WPX Champion Hampshire gilt in McCoy’s online sale and sold her during the Summer Type Conference for $19,000.

“Partnering with our customers and offering our pigs online is a big part of our success,” Cobb says. “We have developed a system that allows us to maintain a high level of customer service.”

Sorting Your Sale Order

When a sale date is booked, both The Pig Planet and Showpig.com start by creating a sale page with basic, yet important information. This includes the name of the sale, contact information, a brief description of what is being sold and any links to websites or social media outlets. Then, the host site will send out a spreadsheet that is the information hub for the sale offering. The spreadsheet is not only a simple and organized way to provide information on each hog, but it is also easy for the staff of the host sites to post on your sale page almost immediately after it is submitted.

During this time, generally 14 days prior to the sale, you should be sorting through your hogs to determine which ones will make the sale line up. In order to spark people’s interest, be selective of your best hogs and sell them first. These should be the hogs you see having the most potential and ability to do well in the show ring or breeding barn.

“We sell pigs we have faith in, we don’t just sell pigs to get rid of them. If we put them online, it is because we feel they are worth a real premium, and our customers are going to be happy buying them.” — Mike McCoy

With that being said, the number of pigs chosen to sell depends on the breeder and how they want to gear their hogs toward future showmen. Some believe having fewer hogs but more sales periodically allows for better selection of what is ready to be sold online. On the other hand, the high demand for quality showpigs has created larger sales with more than 100 head being sold. Once the pigs make it in the to-sell pen, the lot number, earnotch, breed, age and gender of each are recorded onto the spreadsheet and uploaded on your sale site roughly four to seven days prior to the sale. Hosting sales online gives you the freedom to be selective of your stock and what you are going to offer to the public.

Lights, Camera, and Talking them Right

When it comes to marketing your hogs online, photos and descriptions are the most critical aspect of the online sale process and the most time consuming. Ideally, one week before the sale date, photos and descriptions for each should be ready to upload. This allows people to preview the hogs before the sale and contact you with any questions they may have. Having them up for longer... than a week can have a few setbacks. People are more likely to forget or overlook a sale that has been posted for an extended period, but more concerning is how fast smaller pigs grow and change.

“We want our pictures posted on our sale page no more than four days before our sale. It creates more work at the last minute, but our customers can gauge the maturity of the hog they are buying more adequately come sale time,” McCoy says.

The quality of the photo is just as important as the timing. Photos are what draw people in and catch their attention. Working with your pigs beforehand and introducing them to a brush can help when you begin picturing the pigs. A clean environment, time and patience gives you the best results. More important than a good photo is honesty.

Most would agree that choosing a photo that is a true representation of the hog is a testament to your integrity.

“You are not just selling a photo, you are selling a pig that needs to go on and perform for your customer,” Moyer says.

A quality photo goes both ways as the best hogs may not cooperate, and the average hogs take a great photo.

“Being honest with your buyers in the descriptions and photos will build your credibility and allow your future sales to be successful,” Platt says.

The descriptions play an important role. Words can portray what the picture cannot. Without explaining too much about each photo, put emphasis on the best points of each animal. Wendt says to let your buyers know of any blemishes the pictures don’t show such as a crinkled ear. Talk about the pedigree, previous accomplishments of the sow and how you project the hogs.

“A description shouldn’t tell how great every hog is. The good ones will take care of themselves. People will find them, and they will sell anywhere. A description needs to be detailed, but more importantly accurate,” Cobb says.

When you gain the trust of your customers, they will have the confidence to do business with you year after year.

Showring Success
For Cobb, McCoy and Moyer, being able to market hogs online has been huge in the success of their sow pig operations. That success didn’t happen overnight. Online sales take a lot of planning, picturing, promoting and hard work.

“Everything we do in this industry takes some time and every little bit of success makes me want to try a little harder. It’s a rewarding feeling to see a customer do well, and puts a little more pressure on me to sustain that success,” McCoy says.

While striving to maintain success in the show ring, one thing that is apparent in these operations is the dedication they have to the swine industry. The ability to grow their customer base exponentially allows them to keep moving their operations forward.

“We have had great pig sales since we started, but in March of 2014, we sold 227 pigs in one sale. It was very humbling to see that success. We love to try to put together the best show pigs we can produce for youngsters to have a great experience in the show ring. It’s what drives us and our passion for this industry,” Cobb says.

At the end of the day, no matter where you sell them, or how you sell them it all comes down to integrity.

“We will continue to sell hogs online if the success continues. Success being that the pigs sell well, but more importantly that our customers are happy with the services and the hogs they are buying,” Moyer says.

Proudest "Show Mom" moment:
This year, at the National Junior Summer Spectacular (NJSS), Karson placed in every contest he entered. He achieved one of his goals by winning the 2014 NJSS Novice Sweepstakes. My proudest moment in the show ring was Karson exhibiting the Champion Duroc Breeding Gilt at the 2013 Tulsa State Fair.

Favorite part of being a "Show Mom": Spending countless hours together with my family to achieve our goals is my favorite part of being a show mom.

Favorite NSR or NJSA event: NJSS in Louisville, Kentucky.

Activities that your family enjoys outside of the show ring: We are very active in 4-H and other activities Karson is involved in. We also love cheering on our Oklahoma State Cowboys!

Items you would never leave for a show without: Pedigrees, health papers and always extra show clothes.

Tricks to get or keep those show clothes clean: Spray and Wash is my best friend.

Your official "Show Mom" show day duties include: I have Karson dressed in show clothes before his first class, and I keep up with which classes Karson is showing in.

Your official "Show Mom" duties at home include: Skin and hair on the hogs and making sure Joe and Karson have all the tack packed in the trailer.

Your ability to drive a stock trailer is best described as: Straight down the highway! No reverse!

Best tip you can give to other "Show Moms": Be very organized and triple check all show requirements.

Recipe for life on the show road: Pillows, blankets, chargers and lots of snacks!

SUPREME CHAMPION PUREBRED GILT
2014 OKLAHOMA YOUTH EXPO
Congrats to Gavin Seibold on a great accomplishment!

Be sure to look for our pigs to be purchased off the farm, online sales and the NSR Fall Classic! Litters will be out of our top end females and the following sires: Bear Down, Heaven Sent, Bandit, Blount Force, Mr. Wolf, Sumlin, Zero 20, Packin’ Heat (Hamp) and more.

7TH OVERALL BARROW, 2014 OKLAHOMA YOUTH EXPO
Thanks and congratulations to Monty Coulson & Family and Evan Green for their success with Grings Genetics! We placed two gilts in the top 25 at the OYE and had numerous other high-placing hogs in Oklahoma and Texas, three Oklahoma district champions and many county champions through the southwest!

It’s been a great summer for Grings Genetics. We recently raised the Champion and Reserve (sold for record $9,300 in the Blue & Gold Sale) Breeding Gilts in the ’14 Iowa State Fair FFA show and the popular Southeast Iowa Showdown Champion.

Thanks to Cain Super Sires for their purchase of Arctic Cat off the farm. Call Cains or us with questions about this stud!

HEALTH REGULATIONS

1. EACH ANIMAL ENTERING THE STEPHENS COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS MUST BE LISTED ON AN OFFICIAL INTERSTATE HEALTH CERTIFICATE ISSUED BY A LICENSED, ACCREDITED VETERINARIAN. THIS INCLUDES DELIVERIES AND PARKING LOT PURCHASES.
   a. All animals and health certificates will be inspected by state officials prior to unloading.
   b. Multiple animals may be listed on the same original copy. However, breeding stock and weanling pigs must be entered on separate original health certificates.
   c. All out-of-state entries MUST obtain an interstate permit number. Only your accredited veterinarian may obtain this permit number by calling the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture at 405.522.6141.
   d. Certificates are not required to be stamped by the state of origin.

2. CERTIFICATE MUST BE ISSUED ON OR AFTER OCT. 23, 2014, WITH THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION:
   a. Name and address of consignor; consigned to: Fall Classic - Stephens County Expo and Fair 2002 South 13th Street Duncan, OK 73533
   b. Individual identification of animal (ear notch).
   c. All animals (purebreds, crossbreds, weanlings, breeding animals) MUST be identified by a federally-recognized, permanently-numbered ear tag. For more information on federally approved ear tags, please visit www.nationalswine.com.
   d. Health status of animal, including dates of required tests and vaccinations, MUST be listed.
   e. A premise ID number MUST be included on your health certificate.
   f. Your veterinarian’s cell phone number MUST be included on your health certificate.
   g. Your driver’s license number MUST be included on your health certificate.
   h. ALL HEALTH CERTIFICATES MUST CARRY THE FOLLOWING STATEMENTS:
      i. “Farm or origin of the swine has not had pseudorabies or swine dysentery in the last 12 months, has not had any clinical signs or diagnosis of TGE or PEDv in the last 60 days, feeds no garbage, uses no PRV vaccine, and is not under quarantine for any disease condition; also vesicular stomatitis has not been diagnosed within 10 miles of the farm of origin within the last 30 days.”

3. REQUIRED TESTS AND VACCINATIONS:
   a. All animals MUST be tested for pseudorabies (PRV) and brucellosis on or after Oct. 23, 2014, UNLESS they come from a PRV-qualified and brucellosis-validated herd.
      i. Swine tested for PRV and brucellosis must show the date blood sample was drawn (month, day and year).
      ii. The ELISA, PCFIA, ALA or S/N tests are acceptable. Differentiable ELISA test will not be accepted.
      iii. If the herd of origin is PRV qualified and brucellosis validated, individual testing of each animal is not required. In this case, the PRV qualification and brucellosis validation numbers must appear on the health certificate and complete quarterly herd test date (month, day and year) must be stated on health certificate.
   b. All breeding animals coming to the show MUST be vaccinated against Leptospirosis (6-way) including Bratislava and Erysipelas on or after Oct. 23, 2014. The complete date of vaccination MUST be listed on the health certificate.
   c. All weanling animals MUST be vaccinated against Mycoplasma and Circovirus. This is a sale requirement for weanling pigs only.
   d. It is strongly recommended that all animals are vaccinated against Influenza.

   • In some instances, these rules are in addition to Oklahoma regulations, but are necessary to sell animals into other states.
   • These rules are the same for breeding stock and weanling pigs.

GENERAL INFORMATION

» Entry fees for all entries must accompany the respective entry form.
» All late entries will be charged double the regular entry fees. All entry fees are non-refundable.
» The NSR reserves the right to close entries because of pen space limitations any time after the printed deadline.
» All entries must be postmarked by Oct. 10, 2014.
» All pedigrees for entries must be recorded by Nov. 7, 2014, or an additional rush fee will be charged.
» All entries must be ear notched using the official NSR system (starting with number 1 in January and again in July of each year).
» CROSSBRED BOARS: A documented stress test must be presented at check-in (this is a show and sale requirement for mature boars only, no weanlings). Stress status of boars will be listed in the show and sale catalog.
» ALL animals (breeding and weanling) selected for sale must be offered for sale.
EXHIBITORS & ELIGIBILITY

» All exhibitors must be active members of the NSR or must pay the $75 participation fee. An active member must have recorded at least one litter in the 2014 fiscal year.
» If an exhibitor has an NSR account that is past due, funds from the sale of their animals will be applied to their past-due account.
» Only exhibitors consigning animals to the Fall Classic are allowed to bring additional animals onto the Stephens County Expo and Fair. Additional animals MUST abide by the same health requirements as Fall Classic entries.

ARRIVAL & DEPARTURE

» All hogs must arrive on the grounds between 8 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 19 and 9 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 20.
» All weanling pig entries must be checked in by 11 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 20.
» Exhibitors transporting additional animals will be required to obtain official “Sale Permits” from the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture staff when entering the Stephens County Expo & Fair.
» Before leaving the Stephens County Expo & Fair, this permit must be returned to agents of the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture, with a detailed buyers list documenting the destination of each animal (including pre-purchased deliveries, parking lot sales and sifted weanling pigs).

DNA STRESS STATEMENT

» No known stress positive or stress carrier Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace or Yorkshire animals will be allowed to be exhibited or sold at any NSR-sponsored event.
» Such warranty, however, is solely that of the seller and not that of the American Landrace Association (ALA), American Yorkshire Club (AYC), Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR) or the United Duroc Swine Registry.
» The ALA, AYC, HSR and USDFA assume no responsibility or liability in connection with such warranty by the seller.
» If any animal sold at this conference is found to be a carrier of the stress gene, the purchaser has the right to receive full refund of the purchase price from the seller.
» DNA testing for the stress gene must be done within 60 days of the sale date and all costs associated with testing for stress must be paid by the purchaser. The seller has the right to review the test results and the right to re-test the animal at a laboratory of his/her choice.
» Cost associated with re-test by the seller is at the seller’s expense. There will be no refund of NSR commission from stress-carrier animals.

BREEDING ANIMAL SALE

» Breeding animals will be divided into classes as equally as possible by farrowing date.
» A minimum of 60 percent of the number of each sex (boars and gilts) shown will be selected for the sale. These animals will be selected with no set number selling from any single class. Animals not selected for the sale can be consigned to the sale for an additional fee of $20 per head; this must be done by the conclusion of the breed show. If the animal sells, the fee will be applied toward the sale commission. If the animal does not sell, the fee is forfeited.
» All animals selected and cataloged for the sale MUST go through the auction. Sale commission will be 15 percent for all animals. If an animal that is selected and cataloged for sale does not go through the sale ring, the exhibitor will be banned from exhibiting at NSR events for one year and will be charged 15 percent of the average selling price of their respective breed sale. This amount must be paid before reinstatement will be allowed. The exception to this rule will be if an animal has become injured or ill and is inspected by a NSR staff member prior to the sale.
» The NSR acts only as the agent between buyer and seller. If proper payment is made by the buyer in a timely manner, the NSR will make settlement with the seller in approximately 30 days after the sale.

SPECIAL BREED REQUIREMENTS

(Barrows, Boars or Gilts). Weanling Entries CANNOT and WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED AT THE SHOW!
ARRIVAL & DEPARTURE

EXHIBITORS & ELIGIBILITY

EXHIBITORS ARE LIMITED TO SIX WEANLING PIGS (BARROWS, GILTS). ENTRIES ARE OPEN TO Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace, Yorkshire, all purebred weanling pigs that show in purebred classes. Pigs should weigh between 40 and 70 pounds (not required).

ALL ANIMALS ENTERING STEPHENS COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS MUST HAVE A PEDIGREE THAT ACCOMPANIES EACH ENTRY.

DELIVERIES, PARKING LOT SALES AND SIFTED WEANLING PIGS)

Before leaving the Stephens County Expo & Fair, this permit must be obtained from the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture staff when entering the Stephens County Expo & Fair.

Agriculture staff will issue official "Sale Permits" when it is required for the sale of an animal.

All weanling pig entries must be checked in Wednesday, Nov. 19 and 9 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 20. All hogs must arrive on the grounds between 8 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 19, and 9 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 20. 90 • SEEDSTOCK EDGE

September 2014
Our path is clear.

We can teach our young people how to:

- Call a vet
- Pull a pig
- Perform a cesarean
- Order medication
- Pay higher feed costs
- Extend a boar penis
- Feed on muscle
- Show lame stock
- Make single trait selection
- Raise pork not fit to eat

Facing Reality

We can teach eliminating these negatives by blending strengths, being open minded, sampling unusual stock and determine value by their utility.
Eight Purebred Divisions "plus" Crossbred Divisions offered for Barrows and Breeding Gilts
All Barrows that are Breed Champions or Reserves are eligible to sell in the Junior Livestock Auction
All Champion and Reserve Champion Gilts sell Dec. 29, 2014
More than $8,000 in Premiums Offered
Overall and Supreme Champion Selection for Both Shows

Must be a Member of NJSA or Team Purebred
Special Clinics and Youth Activities
Sponsorship Opportunities Available
Daytime Temperature Average in Late December is 68 Degrees
Open to the World

at the 2014 Ohio State Fair

Power Pop

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE WENDT FAMILY FOR SHOWING THE RESERVE CHAMPION AND SECOND HIGH-SELLING HAMPSHIRE BOAR AT THE 2014 OHIO STATE FAIR. HERE IS A REAL UNIQUE BREEDING PIECE. POWER POP IS A LINE-BRED MATING USING POWER POINT ON HIS MOTHER. HIS SIRE GOES BACK TO POINT MAKER. THE DAM OF POWER POP IS AN AWESOME MOTHER AND HAS PRODUCED THE RES. GRAND CHAMPION BARROWS IN BOTH THE OPEN AND JUNIOR SHOWS, THE CHAMPION CARCASS BARROW AND THE GRAND AND RES. CHAMPION BOARS AT THE O HIO STATE FAIR. TREMENDOUS MUSCLE SHAPE AND WIDTH OF TOP PACKED INTO A HEAVY-STRUCTURED SKELETON WITH GREAT ATHLETIC MOVEMENT IN A SLIGHTLY BIGGER PACKAGE. WE WERE VERY EXCITED TO ADD POWER POP TO OUR ALREADY STRONG HAMPSHIRE BOAR LINEUP. WE EXPECT GREAT THINGS FROM THIS BOAR AND BELIEVE HE CAN PRODUCE BANNER-WINNING HAMPSHIRE AND CROSSBREDS.

Over the years, I have been privileged to be part of many record-breaking events, either as a fieldman working the ring or auctioneering the sale. I will never forget working the ring at the 1973 Yorkshire Type Conference in Louisville, Kentucky, when Mark Pickel was auctioneering, and it was announced we had just passed $100,000 for the first time in Yorkshire history. We thought we would never see this happen again. However, the very next conference passed it by $50,000. To be auctioneering in the very auction block Mark was selling from 41 years earlier, when it was announced we had just passed $1 million was sure a special moment for me too. History has proven, when we have record-selling boars, gilts and events like this, it seems to establish a higher value for our entire industry to sell from. And to be objective, history has also shown not every year will produce record breakers. Records are made to be broken and someday even this one will be broken. Until then, all I can say is, “WOW!”

$230,000 Record-Selling Yorkshire Boar, 2014 STC
Congratulations to the Steve Cobb & Family. Sold to Lean Value Sires, Ohio.

Something else at Louisville left a lasting impression on me. As I was going to the office, I noticed two junior members in the hallway. The girls were having a good discussion going on, when one of the girl’s mother came in and said it was time to go home. They gave each other a hug and said, “See you next year.” I wonder how many long-lasting friendships, like this one, have been made over the years since the NJSA was established. One thing’s for sure, there would be no $1 million sales without what those hugs represent.

A special note of appreciation to Mike Paul and his dedicated NSR-NJSA staff. Their back-to-back efforts with the Expo and Summer Type Conference, not only during the events but also with all of the work and planning that takes place before and after these events, is awesome.

While picking the grand champion junior gilt, Mike McCoy said, “This is not a hobby with us, it’s a livelihood, a business.” It is a livelihood and business for me too. I am thankful for the continued support and opportunity to serve our industry.

Marketing & Communications Intern

As the intern for the Marketing and Communication Department, I was able to illustrate my passion for the swine industry and my love for creativity through my internship responsibilities. Every day, I was challenged to step outside of my comfort zone and explore different writing styles and design techniques. I had first-hand experience at shows shooting candid ring shots, creating video footage and blogging show and sale results online. Beyond the countless opportunities I experienced, I have learned essential skills that will set me apart from my peers, and I was exposed to numerous career opportunities. Above all, I was fortunate enough to work with an elite group of people who make up the NSR. Their influence and positive attitude helped me achieve my goals, work harder and strive to never give up.

For more information, contact Katie Maupin, Director of Marketing & Communications, at katie@nationalswine.com.

Field Staff Intern

Through the Field Staff internship, I had the opportunity to visit some of today’s leading hog breeders’ operations and listen and learn ways I can make myself a better breeder. I was put in front of the public eye and given the chance to gain many important contacts and friendships I will cherish for a lifetime. This internship has refined the many necessary skills it takes to not only raise quality seedstock but also work in the professional setting. As an aspiring hog breeder, who loves to travel to shows and farms, I have gained a greater desire to make not only myself better, but everyone else more successful in their operations.

For more information, contact Brian Arnold, V.P. of Member Outreach and Youth Development, at arnold@nationalswine.com.

NJSA Intern

During my time with the National Junior Swine Association, I established a great working relationship with industry leaders, sponsors, breeders and most importantly, members and their families. The staff of the National Swine Registry clearly shares the same type of passion for the purebred swine industry, and to work alongside them this summer has truly been a blessing. It was also a blessing to be able to speak and interact with the breeders of the junior projects throughout the summer. This internship has provided numerous connections and friendships that I am sure will last a lifetime. All in all, this experience has been a blast, and I am looking forward to taking my newfound expertise into the future.

For more information, contact Kaley Bontrager, Director of Junior Activities, at kaley@nationalswine.com.

Named after the most influential York boar on our farm, Middle Creek Strike 16-1. He has a heavy skeleton and big bones. Strike’s width and squareness at the top of his blade continue to his base, but he is still angular. His first pigs arrived in July. He has seen a lot of use and will continue to breed sows here. We also kept a littermate, Centerpiece.

Bulk is an easy-keeping, tall-fronted, flexible stud. Bulk’s range of motion is very impressive. He can get his hocks back as far as any Yorkshire boar alive! Bulk can be a cure for bad-structured hogs, and his daughters are tremendous milkers.

Res. Jr. Champ York Gilt, Ind. State Fair Open Show • Out of a ROUGHNECK gilt Showpigs, semen and breeding stock available. Watch for online sales.

A sincere thank you to Kilmer Swine Farm for their purchases of Wheels R Turning and Earle over the past two years. This has been a very humbling experience for me and a great opportunity to work with a great firm and people at Kilmer’s Swine Farm. Thanks also to Malcolm Farms, Harvey Hampshires, and Kenneth Darrel & Family for their confidence in the genetic potential of these two boars.

Purple Power Boar Stud LLC feels very fortunate to have five boars produce champions, reserves or division winners from state or national level shows as early as the Sioux Falls Empire Show until now. Of those five boars, four are still here! Flash Drive, Challenger, Incredible and Kryptonite. With the new boars Incentive, Rock Revival, Astroid and Cummins, the future looks bright!

Purple Power Boar Stud LLC feels very fortunate to have five boars produce champions, reserves or division winners from state or national level shows as early as the Sioux Falls Empire Show until now. Of those five,... Flash Drive, Challenger, Incredible and Kryptonite. With the new boars Incentive, Rock Revival, Astroid and Cummins, the future looks bright!

This is exactly what we were hoping for from Milestone. He has his daddy’s build, rib design and perfect rear leg structure. He takes it a notch further by being bolder skulled, stouter featured and taller shouldered. There are not many red ones out there put together like this one through his front end with a stout jaw, awesome neck, square blade, powerful chest and huge forearm. He is moderate in his length of body, but his maturity pattern is so correct. This one will see lots of sows here and make things interesting.

As this one’s name implies, he’s a little different than most rasied here. This one is stout featured, chunky and sappy bellied. Is he perfect for all sows? No, but this one can make a big change with one shot. He has a tremendous body cavity starting with a big, powerful, square blade that sets on top of a huge forearm and big front foot. Forerib shape and center body shape are awesome, which allow for a huge back with a great turn to his loin. Flexibility and squareness are an added bonus for this unique herdsire.

Flash Drive x Integrity x Can't Touch This
This was the one we couldn't part with. He had our interest shortly after he entered the nursery. His parts and pieces are what we've been searching for in our program for the last couple of years. This is a moderate-framed, opened-up, big-footed boar with the skeletal build and performance to go with it. His perfect blade, chest and rib design have not been manufactured by a feed or fat bucket. This one has big, even toes and the perfect set to his rear pastern and dewclaws. He excels in mass and shape coming out of his blade and carries it all the way to the top of his hip.

That Breed On...

Haymaker

$22,000 high-selling and champion boar at the WTC has created quite a stir this summer. Many breeders will be using him to make elite crossbreds and ousting purebreds.

Contact Premium Blend Genetics at 1-855-PBG-PIGS for semen.

Power Point

$17,000 Champion and high-seller at 2013 Ohio State Fair. His first pig crop was amazing! Fourth overall Hampshire Barrow, 2014 NJSS; Champion Hamp and Reserve Overall Barrow, Delaware County, Indiana; Reserve Barrow, Main Event Jackpot; three of four Hampshire champions at the Gold Rush Customer Sale; Reserve Grand Champion Boar, 2014 Ohio State Fair; and he is the sire of the 2014 Hog College Gilt at the National Barrow Show.

Call Shaffer’s Goldrush at 888-690-2022 for semen.

Public Enemy

A littermate to Power Point. Sired the Grand Champion Hampshire gilt 2014 Ohio State Fair open and Junior shows and Champion bred and owned as well as top three high selling Hampshire gilts in our online sale. Limited semen available from Wendt Livestock; call Kevin at 419-566-1599.

Revival

The $15,000 online purchase from Frank and Julie Feeser of Maryland and owned with Sharrett Family Farms. His first pigs look awesome. Those that have seen him say he has the best real leg and structure of any Hampshire boar available.

Special Note:

We are pleased to announce our joint venture with Frank and Julie Feeser on their remaining key Hampshire sows, including the mother of Revival and several prominent, old-line genetics that will transform Hampshires.

WHEN WE GREW UP
A year-long look at the staff of the National Swine Registry

ROBIN LUCAS
Office Manager & Yorkshire Secretary

By the time Robin Lucas was in second grade, she already knew what she was going to be when she grew up – a teacher. It was a no-brainer for her because, after all, the students have to do all the work. Teaching would be easy. She practiced for her future profession, teaching her dolls to read and later participating in as many school activities as she could.

It wasn’t until she got to high school that Lucas changed her mind. After taking an accounting class, she became very interested in accounting and office work. When she began college at Ivy Tech Community College, she also took a part-time job filing for the American Yorkshire Club (AYC). In the summer of 1980, she came to work for the AYC full time as the Yorkshire pedigree verifier.

During the last 34 years, Lucas has also served as office manager and manager of the Pedigree Department and account processing of what is now the National Swine Registry (NSR). As of May of this year, she has come full circle to once again register and transfer Yorkshire pedigrees. She also attends shows where she does the behind-the-scenes work of preparing the show and sale catalogs.

Outside of work, Lucas enjoys working in her flower garden and spending time with her family. She loves attending any activities her eight grandchildren are a part of, which include baseball, soccer, football and volleyball.

LISA KENNEDY
Administrative Assistant

After Lisa Kennedy’s first day on the job as administrative assistant, she wasn’t sure she would come back for day two. Kennedy, who had no previous experience with livestock, shows or the AYLC, spent her first day at the 1991 Summer Type Conference in Indianapolis, Indiana. Her assignment was to pass out bidder numbers, but the fieldmen, at the time, decided to initiate her as part of the staff by telling her to stand behind the table and yell, “Get your bidder numbers here!”

For Kennedy, who was shy and introverted, at the time, this sounded more like a nightmare than the dream job she had hoped it would be when sister-in-law Robin Lucas called her about it. She was unsure what she had gotten herself into and didn’t know how she was going to make herself stand behind the table and yell at all of those people. She should have just pursued her childhood ambition of being a beautician or interior decorator. Thankfully, Lucas found Kennedy before she talked herself into quitting and explained the fieldmen were playing a joke.

Twenty-three years later, Kennedy is still passing out bidder numbers at what are now NSR events. She also organizes open show entries, clerks NSR sales and coordinates travel arrangements for shows, the fieldmen and the Board of Directors. During her first show, she didn’t see how she would last past day one, but, today, she can’t imagine herself anywhere else.

In her free time, Kennedy enjoys reading, walking, landscaping and spending time with her mother and grandchildren.

FAVORITE PART OF THE JOB:
The people are always what you enjoy most, matching the faces with the names at the shows and the many friends I have made over the years. But, I equally enjoy working with the interns. I enjoy getting to know them, watching them grow up and see them start their own careers.” –Robin Lucas

FAVORITE PART OF THE JOB:
“I enjoy talking with the breeders and being able to help with whatever they need. I’ve made some lifetime friends here. If you have a job you enjoy and work with people you like, it doesn’t feel like a job.” –Lisa Kennedy

By Ann Fry

Robin Lucas always thought she would become a teacher when she grew up. Instead, she spent the last 34 years serving NSR members.

Lisa Kennedy didn’t think she would make it past day one at the NSR. Twenty-three years later, she can’t imagine herself anywhere else.
